

NEW MARKETS TAX CREDIT FUNDS

HISTORIC DOWNTOWN MONROEVILLE REVITALIZATION BOOSTED BY NMTC LOAN POOL FUNDS.

Downtown Monroeville, Alabama, the historic home of the late Harper Lee and other literary and journalism legends, is undergoing a renaissance.

Alongside efforts of Main Street Monroeville to revive the historic downtown area, $5,000,000 in New Markets Tax Credit “NMTC” loan pool funds from UB Community Development have been used to help restore nine historic buildings in the heart of downtown Monroeville.

Billy Jones, the NMTC project owner, had the vision and resources to combine numerous renovation projects into one large downtown project and utilize NMTC funds to give new life to the heart of his town. Having been inspired by the renovation efforts of other businesses in the area, Jones purchased properties within downtown Monroeville and has worked to revitalize them with the hopes of adding momentum to the growing sense of pride in Downtown. The properties restored with the New Markets Tax Credit funds span a range of uses, including retail and office spaces mixed with living spaces, Airbnb rentals, a grocery store, a bar and eatery, and most uniquely an upscale wedding and event venue rehabbed out of the county’s previous Road Department maintenance shop.

In 2022, Jones received The Excellence in Historic Preservation Award from Main Street Alabama for his renovation of the Faulk Building at 32 North Alabama Avenue in Downtown Monroeville. The building now houses four fully furnished lofts that are available for short-term rental on airbnb.com.
